GAS-LIGHT READING.

—A German writer says a young girl is a fishing-rod; her eyes are the hook, her smile the bait, the lover the gudgeon, and marriage the batter in which he is fried.

—"The boy at the head of the class will state what were the dark ages of the world." Boy hesitates. "Next—Master Smith, can't you tell what the dark ages were?" "I guess they were the ages just before the invention of spectacles." "Go to your seats."

—Emily (little sister)—What a large family the Spinsters must be! I hear in church, every Sunday, that some of them are going to be married.

—Frances (elder sister)—Oh, you little stupid! Don't you know what spinsters are? Bachelor ladies, of course.

—Acting Human.—

Let each one strive with all his might
To be a decent man,
And love his brother as himself—
Upon the golden plan;
And if his neighbor chance to be
A pretty female woman,
Why love her all the more—you see That's only acting human.

—A little boy inquired at the Augusta Post Office, recently, if there was a letter for Chester Pillsbury, and, while the clerk was looking for the letter, the little fellow, thinking to help him in his search, said, "He is married now, and I s'pose they put mister onto his name."

—A wife in Bloomington, Ill., during the trial of her first divorce case, interrupted her counsel's eloquent plea for provision for her child with the remark, addressed to the court, that "It was not provision she wanted, but that she would take whatever the court in its wisdom might see fit to allow her, in money, be that much or little."

—"Why don't you wear your ring, my dear?" said a father, in a bail-room, to his daughter. "Because, papa, it hurts me when any one squeezes my hand." "What business have you to have your hand squeezed?" "Certainly none; but still, you know, papa, one would like to keep it in squeezable order."

—A Toledo German, who has been keeping a saloon for the accommodation of printers, has been obliged to suspend. On his books were found the following named members of the craft: "Der Laim Brinter," "Der Leetle Brinter," "Der Pen Putler Brinter," "Der Tivel," "Der Brinter mit der Red Hair," and "Der Brinter mit Hair not Shoost so Red."

—"My dear, if you go on at this extravagant rate," said a penurious husband to his wife, "I shall go out of my wits." "Well, my dear," responded the affectionate wife, "there'll be one comfort in it, any how, and that is, that if you do go out of your wits, you'll not have to go so far but what you'll be within easy call."

—Rev. Rowland Hill used to ride to and from church in a carriage. This gave offence to one of the members, who went so far as to hand in, among the notices, one requesting "the prayers of this congregation for the pastor, who, yielding to pride, is in the habit of riding in his carriage; not content, like his Divine Master, to ride upon an ass." It was not till Mr. H. had read the paper, and observed the sensation created, that he noticed its import. Then laying it down, he said: "It is true, brethren, I ride in my carriage; but if the author of this notice will appear at the door, at the conclusion of the services, saddled and bridled, I will do my best to ride him home."

BABY BELLE.

BY MATTIE DYER BRITTS.

If you'll come into our cottage, I will show you something rare,
And I doubt if eyes have ever seen a sight more sweet and fair;
For, than all the dainty workings hands of man have done
or do,
Sure the Master's work is fairest, as His skill is greatest,
too.
And of all the things of beauty which upon the world
have smiled,
None can touch the heart so deeply as the beauty of a child!
So we love her! Yes, we love her more than words can
ever tell,
Little, weesome, winsome darling! Bright-eyed, blue-eyed Baby Belle!

Seated on the cottage floor, pulling off her tiny shoe,
Little bare foot, white and dimpled—arms and shoulders
dimpled, too—
Eyes as blue as summer blossoms, tender skin as pure as pearl,
And the sunlight dropping golden on each shining little curl—
Artist's pencil, e'er so cunning, fairer thing could never trace:
Every feature perfect beauty, every motion perfect
grace!
Do you wonder that we love her more than words can
ever tell,
Little, winsome, weesome darling! Airy, fairy Baby
Belle?

Kings may have their crowns and diamonds, and their
robes of purple hue,
Have their works of art and beauty—keep their wealth,
and welcome, too—
We'll not envy all their splendors while we have this single gem,
Far more precious to our bosoms than their riches are to them.
We've no store of worldly treasure, neither lands nor gold, and yet
We are rich beyond all measure in our priceless household pet.
And we love her—yes, we love her more than words can
ever tell,
Little, winsome, weesome darling! Dainty, darling Baby
Belle!

And when she grows a woman, when she lives and walks on
